Theo Berry, 18-year-old Buckhead youth, early Wednesday night was found guilty of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of William H. Cheek, Peachtree road grocer, by a jury in Fulton superior court. On recommendation of mercy, he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Berry is the second defendant to be convicted in the Cheek killing. Mell M. Gore being sentenced to die March 12 in the electric chair following his conviction last Thursday. Jack Wilson, Chicago gunman alleged to have fired the fatal shots, is now being sought by police.

The verdict in Berry's case was returned after the jury had debated only 32 minutes. Judge John D. Humphries, who presided, passed sentence.

The youthful defendant received the verdict without show of emotion—an attitude which marked his conduct during the entire trial. He informed the court he had nothing to say. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Berry, parents of the boy, broke down in the courtroom.

IN CHEEK MURDER.

As was the case with Gore, Berry was tried and convicted in one day. The case went to the jury at 5:45 and the verdict was returned at 6:17 o'clock. While the verdict was rendered in a very short time, the findings were not unexpected, hundreds of spectators predicting a life sentence on account of the youth of the defendant.

Mayor Walter A. Sims, Berry's counsel, offered Tuesday to have his client enter a plea of guilty with the understanding that he was to be given a life sentence.

Mr. Sims stated that he would not file motion for new trial, since he was satisfied with the findings of the jury. The only marked legal clash came when the state attempted to introduce alleged signed confessions of both Berry and Gore. Mr. Sims objected, but the court ruled that the affidavit

Columbus, Ga., January 27.—(AP)—The former German emperor, now sentenced to be hanged here Friday for the confessed slaying of Howard F. Underwood in 1923, was transferred to the death cell of the Muscogee county jail this afternoon. The youths will remain in the cell, which is on the same floor with the gallows, until the execution hour.

Friends and relatives will be allowed to visit the condemned boys until a short time before the execution, it was announced today.

Shortly after they were placed in the cell, a relative of Jones told the youths, "A lot of things can happen between now and Friday, so don't be discouraged."

Homer Beeland, defense attorney, still refused to reveal his last minute plans to save the two boys today, but it was rumored in Columbus that a petition might be presented, pleading imprisonment insanity. Mr. Beeland declined to verify this report.

SEEK BUILDING FOR EXHIBITIONS

Plans by which the city of Atlanta could build an exhibition building for use of exhibitors who come here in connection with the larger national conventions, on the site of the old curb market building on Courtland street, adjoining the auditorium, will be made by a special committee which was appointed by the executive committee of the Atlanta Convention bureau.

Colonel Frederic J. Paxon, president of the bureau, called the committee together at luncheon Wednesday in the Green Tree lunch room in the Davison-Paxon-Stokes building. Fred Houser and Virgil Shepard, of the convention bureau, stated that seven additional conventions recently had been lost to Atlanta, solely because of the lack of space for the housing of exhibits.

William Candler, Colonel W. L. Peel and Virgil Shepard were named a committee of three to investigate the use of the old market site for an exhibition building and to ascertain all available data as to what such a building would cost, what revenue could be expected from its operation and means of financing the project.

MATHER WILL STUDY FURNITURE DESIGNS

In anticipation of the stability of the present nation-wide demand for furniture embodying lines and influences of the Spanish Renaissance and to acquaint himself with true specifications of this period for reproduction purposes in his factories at Austell, H. Cotton Mather, accompanied by his wife, will sail Tuesday for Spain aboard the "Rotterdam," to spend six months studying examples of genuine Spanish antique and modern designs.

The principal points to be visited are Barcelona, Seville and Granada. Information regarding this increasingly popular style of furniture will be cabled to his designing director who will immediately make reproductions for display at the Furniture Mart during the Chicago July market, it is said.

Mr. Mather is head of the Austell Cabinet company and Austell Furniture company, two of the south's leading popular priced furniture factories, and head of a chain of retail furniture stores. Reproductions at his factories will be made and information gained on this trip, together with purchases to be made in Spain, will be displayed and offered for sale in the various Mather retail stores in Georgia and Florida.

Use of Spanish styles in furniture is said to be becoming very general, due in large measure to its introduction and general acceptance in connection with developments in Florida. From a decorative standpoint also, the Spanish Renaissance style lends itself most admirably because of the quaint carving on the wood work, the grained iron brackets and the bright rich colors employed in the upholstery, it is pointed out.

NICHOLS, THOMPSON GO ON TRIAL TODAY ON MURDER COUNT

Clarence Nichols and Bill Thompson, indicted jointly on charges of murder in connection with the fatal shooting on July 20, of Mann McIntyre on Ivy street, are slated to begin today's fight for their lives in Judge G. H. Howard's division Fulton superior court. The case was to have started Wednesday, but was postponed.

Thompson and Clarence were indicted jointly with Leon Nichols and George Poole but the state elected to prosecute only Nichols and Poole. Leon Nichols was sentenced to serve 10 to 15 years after he was convicted on charges of voluntary manslaughter. Poole will be tried at a later date.

McIntyre is alleged to have been killed by shots fired from a speeding automobile. Nichols claimed at his trial that he fired in self-defense as McIntyre advanced toward him in a menacing manner.

Attorney H. A. Allen is defense counsel.

BOYKIN AND MOORE MAY ENTER RACES

Following announcement Wednesday by Judge W. D. Ellis, of Fulton superior court that he will not seek reelection in the democratic primary which will be held March 24, speculation is rife concerning possible candidates to succeed him. Judge Ellis stated he will retire to private life, after having served on Fulton county superior bench for about 20 years.

Included among those mentioned as probable candidates to succeed Judge Ellis are W. N. Pruitt, M. E. Johnson, of Fulton county commission, and chairman of that body last year, and John A. Boykin, solicitor general of Fulton county.

Neither of these men have made a formal announcement, but friends said it would be a surprise if either did not seek reelection as a member of the Fulton commission, and this strengthens the belief that he will be a candidate for the judge's post.

Solicitor Boykin declared, "I am too early to be discussing a campaign."

Terms of Mr. Moore, Paul S. Etheridge and Edwin F. Johnson, of Fulton commissioners, are to be filled at this primary. Mr. Etheridge and Mr. Johnson are said to have indicated they will offer to succeed themselves, but nothing definite has been said.

Details of the primary will be worked out at a meeting of the county democratic executive committee in the near future.

LANDERS URGED TO ENTER CONTEST FOR COUNTY POST

J. N. Landers, formerly city purchasing agent and councilman from the seventh ward, was being groomed by friends Wednesday as a probable candidate for one of the three places on the Fulton county commission in the county primary March 24. Mr. Landers has told his friends he would make definite announcement within a few days, it is said.

Robert A. Rosen, attorney for the association, will also speak.

Annual reports will be made by Acting President L. A. Witherspoon and Secretary C. V. Hohnerstein. The work of the various committees will also be reviewed, including that of the executive committee, of which F. Paxton is chairman, Ivan E. Allen, chairman; membership committee, Oscar Venable, chairman; monthly meetings and programs committee, T. G. Woolford, chairman; reception and good fellowship committee, Harry C. The suit, which was against D. L. Shannon, was filed by Attorneys Hewlett & Dennis, and alleged that Mrs. Martin's son was killed by a truck of the defendant at Decatur and Ivy streets about 7:45 o'clock in the morning.

FEDERAL ENDORSEMENT.

The house of representatives, in passing almost unanimously the Haugen bill to establish a marketing division of the department of agriculture, gave a most emphatic stamp of official government approval to the economic policy of cooperative marketing. There were only three negative votes out of 360 cast, which in itself leaves no opportunity for argument as to governmental endorsement of the cooperative system.

The bill does not contain any of the objectionable, price-fixing, paternalistic and socialistic features of the McNary-Haugen bill, and the public should not get the two confused.

The bill carries an appropriation of $225,000 for the first year's work of the new division, to be charged with aiding cooperative organizations in marketing crops
and with disseminating information
among the farmers. The measure
had the hearty approval of President
Coolidge, who has, from the beginning of his administration, shown
a marked sympathy for the general
principle of cooperative marketing.

It will strengthen the cooperatives
— if the senate passes it, as it will probably do—and while tendering helpful federal cooperation it will not destroy their usefulness by governmental interferences. The e-house's action deserves hearty commendation.

JUDGE ELLIS TO RETIRE.

The announcement that Judge

William D. Ellis will retire from the Fulton superior court bench after this year, made by the judge himself, calls for wide speculation as to who will be the candidates to succession.

THE FAULTY SYSTEM.

The editorial reproduced on this page from the Albany Herald is so sound and so inviting of harmony

in spirit and action that it deserves to be read by every member of the assembly, and by every citizen who has the best interest of Georgia at heart.

"Georgia is sorely handicapped by its highway system," is the outstanding truth around which the editorial is pitched.

The "system" it brings the question back to the method of road building in Georgia, which is admittedly faulty and should be changed.

The way to change the system, which at present creates a road checker-board all over the state, is to make the state instead of the county the unit—and to build permanently paved highways.

The county seat to county seat plan must not be changed. That is one of the impelling reasons—the completion of the highway mileage on that plan—why the present method of building highways should be changed. As we are going, building a little paving here and there, the county seat to county seat permanent idea will never be realized. There are some counties that will perhaps never be able to finance their links.

It is more imperative, indeed, for Georgia to make the state the highway unit than most states, for Georgia has more counties to its square-mile area than any other American state, hence the greater difficulty in securing necessary coordination through a system that makes the county the highway unit.

The building of county roads—laterals to the state highways—is extremely important to the counties. They have a good-sized job in doing that, and in properly maintaining them.

We are entirely satisfied to let the one cent a gallon from the gasoline tax, now allocated to counties, remain so, provided it is made mandatory that this fund shall be used in each county only for roads.

The state can be made the unit for a state highway system, and state bonds can be carried and retired in sufficient quantity to complete the system within seven years, on the gasoline and motor taxes,
other than this county allocation.

Actuaries have proven that to definiteness.

The Herald's editorial discusses the matter sensibly and in the right temper.

THE EXTENSION FORCES.

Dr. M. C. Wilson, of the United States department of agriculture, speaking before the state-wide farm meeting in Athens, is quoted as declaring that Georgia leads all other states in the effectiveness of her extension program. This top-notch position of Georgia in this respect is not the result of mere guess work, as the speaker made plain and definite, but the result instead of a careful government survey, made by states.

Elbert, Sumter, Carroll and Washington counties were selected by the agriculture department as test counties in Georgia for the basis of their study. In these counties, it was explained, a section was laid off, and farmers, white and negro, were interviewed relative to their impressions of extension work as it directly affected his farm. A total of 668 farmers were visited in Georgia, Dr. Wilson declared, in an effort to make the survey as representative of the entire state as was possible.

The result of this survey, he said, showed that approximately 74 per cent of the farmers interviewed were benefiting by some form of extension work, and 37 per cent of the families were directly represented in club work or had been previously. Eighteen per cent of the families visited in Georgia were shown to be identified with boys' and girls' clubs.

The Constitution has repeatedly emphasized the importance of the farm extension work, and has urged those counties not having farm agents, or woman domestic science demonstrators, or both, to so equip themselves. It has watched the results in counties that had good agents and those that had none.

It is undeniable that many young men at first entered the extension service who were not properly equipped, either by practical knowledge, or by temperament. But that situation has been very largely remedied.

The extension work, the boys' and girls' clubs, the local and country fairs, the various contests, all of these agencies are combining not only in bringing the state's agricultural position to a high economic standard, but in strengthening community spirit, and in making rural life more attractive, and thereby more inviting.

The extension forces in Georgia are to be warmly congratulated for the permanent records made, as so readily attested by Dr. Wilson.

The bill carries an appropriation
of $225,000 for the first year's work of the new division, to be charged with aiding cooperative
organizations in marketing crops
and with disseminating information
among the farmers. The measure
had the hearty approval of President
Coolidge, who has, from the beginning of his administration, shown
a marked sympathy for the general
principle of cooperative marketing.

It will strengthen the cooperatives
— if the senate passes it, as it will probably do—and while tendering
helpful federal cooperation it will
not destroy their usefulness by governmental interferences. The e-house's action deserves hearty
commendation.

Geneva, January 27.—The League officials believe the reservations adopted by the United States senate to safeguard the United States in the world court may delay actual American participation in the court for years.

The League of Nations, which is considered by the constitutional reservations adopted in Washington Wednesday. They are unable to state whether or not all the reservations will be acceptable.

It was explained Wednesday that the reservation delaying Americans until all other signatories have accepted the senate reservations in writing will necessitate the United States engaging in private negotiations with 48 different nations. This might require years, it was said.

Any signatory San Domingo or Liberia, for instance, might block American entry into the court.

While the league is willing to accept reservations affecting merely the position of the United States before the court, it was said that the league would not accept reservations affecting other nations. Nor could the league agree to reservations changing the present status of the court, which is functioning satisfactorily for the rest of the world, nor to reservations creating a special position for the United States.

It was emphasized that the United States must join the court on a basis of equality. According to the secretary, the majority of the reservations adopted by the senate are unnecessary, because they cover points universally recognized and adopted in practice.

reservations of the hostile "irreconcilables" all were shifted into the "pro-protocol" camp by the Swanson resolution of adherence was approved to the word, as it was offered Saturday after being revised by the pro-court forces.

Reject Moses' Reservation.

While many of the 20 reservations were considered of minor importance, at least three of those rejected were given outstanding recognition.

One, proposed by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, which was rejected 49 to 22, in several court supporters, voting for it, would have provided that the judgement of the court could not be enforced by war "under any name or in any form whatever."

The reservation known as the Moses substitute, which would have called for the setting up of a new commission, was accepted with the league, was rejected, 72 to 21.

By vote of 73 to 20, the senate also turned down the reservation proposed by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, under which the British empire would have been given only one vote in the league council for the purpose of electing court judges.

Breathtaking Silence on Vote.

There was a breathless silence in the crowded chamber as the roll was called. Not a sound was to be heard except the calling of the senators' names and their terse answers. Many senators kept tallies as the roll call proceeded.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who had been in the gallery since noon, let her dinner wait and went with the roll was announced about 7 p. m. She was listened to most of the debate recently. Scarcely a spectator left the galleries until the end.

Although the approval of the court is the most vital step the United States has taken in its foreign relations since the adoption of the League of Nations, the diplomatic galleries was empty when the vote was taken. It was empty most of the day. Only occasionally during the world court debate would a diplomat come in, usually to look over the senate spee-chats for a short time and then leave.

Cole Blease Pops Up.

The last few moments before the final vote provided the galleries with a high-powered brand of senate dramatics. Cole Bleas, South Carolina, who had been unable to raise the opportunity to enlighten the galleries on the subject of diplomatic liquor and the drunken flapper arrested here in the snow, wearing only pajamas and a red bathing suit, and full of liquor which she said came from an embassy.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH OF WORLD COURT FIGHT.

Establishment of a permanent court of international justice was proposed under Article 14 of the covenant of the league of nations.

The league called together in 1920 a commission of jurists, who drew up plans for the court. Elihu Root was a member.

These plans, as embodied in the "protocol," have been accepted by 48 nations. They provide for a court of 11 judges and 4 deputies, chosen by the league. The court can pass on such international disputes as may be presented, but its opinions are binding only when the nations involved consent.

American Upon Court.

The first panel of judges was elected January 27, and afterward the court began to function at Geneva. It has handed down a number of decisions. One of the judges is John Bassett Moore, an American.

Conditional ratification of the court protocol by the senate was proposed by President Harding on February 27, 1923, with certain reservations, leaving the United States excepted from "legal relation" to the league, would expect a voice in the election of judges, and must give its consent before the protocol could be amended. These stipulations and several others are contained in the ratification resolution adopted Wednesday night.

President Harding's proposal prompted by the senate foreign relations committee, which a majority made up of opponents of the league of nations, said it meant entering the league by the back door.

Coolidge Takes Up Fight.

After Harding's death, President Coolidge repeatedly urged ratification and his recommendation was supported by petitions from many sources. Church and other organizations conducted a nationwide campaign for ratification. Ohio, Indiana, and members of the league, urged rejection.

In May, 1924, the foreign relations committee voted down a ratification resolution by Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, embodying the Harding reservations, and approved instead a proposal by Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, to organize a court under American auspices. But this proposal got no further.

The pressure for action continued, and at the instance of the democratic leader, Senator Robinson, the senate agreed last spring to take up the resolution again on the basis of discussion.

Closure Is Invoked.

Soon after the debate began, it became apparent that the court's opponents were fighting for time. For the second time in its history, the senate voted last Monday to end the debate by invoking its rule limiting debate.

Ratification, based on a revised version of the original Swanson resolution, does not automatically take the United States into the court. The reservations adopted at first must be submitted by the state department to the other member governments, and a declaration of willingness to admit the new member under the conditions specified.

Then Hiram Johnson, California republican, stood up just before the vote and warned his republican colleagues that in voting for the world court they were going against the traditional policy of the republican party.

"Those who have fought will fight just as hard in the future to do their patriotic duty."

As soon as the vote was announced, Bruce, Maryland pro-league democrat, made a brief speech, congratulating the senate on the step it had just taken. Early in the court debate Bruce caused the pro-court forces embarrassment by arguing that the pro-tool should be approved as a first step toward entering the League of Nations.

Religious Worker Groups Continue Campaign Here To Emphasize Christianity

Services in Practically All Churches and Schools Mark City's Observance of "Religious Emphasis Week."

Fundamentals of Christianity that give it its universal appeal were explained Wednesday in schools, colleges and churches throughout the city in addresses by a group of religious workers.

The meetings marked the fourth day of "Religious Emphasis Week" and were attended by big crowds and indications are that increased interest and enthusiasm has been aroused by the programs, according to leaders.

Speakers here for the week are not revivalists, but are nationally known lay workers and continued Wednesday to carry the message of Christianity into civic clubs.

Dr. Henry C. Crane, pastor of Central Methodist Episcopal church of Walden, Mass., spoke to members of the Masonic club at its luncheon Wednesday.

Many Speakers Busy.

The noonday mass meeting for business people at 12:15 o'clock at the First Baptist church was addressed by Com. Raymond Robins, prominent gospelly speaker. Mr. Robins has proved to be one of the most sensational religious speakers during the week.

Dr. Thomas W. Grahame delivered a short talk at Central A. M. E. mass meeting at 12:15 o'clock, at a negro mass meeting.

Afternoon services were featured by a meeting of the various Hi-Y clubs of the city at Central Y. M. C. A. Francis T. Miller, noted lay worker, spoke.

A feature address of the 7:30 o'clock sectional meeting was delivered by Dr. Henry H. Crane, at the West End Baptist church.

Emory and Oglethorpe universities, Georgia School of Technology, and the various high schools and other colleges of the city, including the negro institutions, held regular services at the respective chapel houses. The service at Georgia Tech will be held in the Tech Y. M. C. A., at 6:30 o'clock.

Durham Speaks.

Dr. Plato Durham will address the negro mass meeting at 12:15 o'clock at the Central M. E. church. The six centrally located Atlanta churches will have services at 12:15 o'clock tonight. The schedule mapped out by the committee on church cooperation, which is sponsoring the week, follows: West End Baptist, Dr. Alva W. Taylor, speaker; St. Paul Methodist, Dr. J. Stitt Wilson, speaker; Second Baptist, Dean Thomas W. Grahame, speaker; Grace Methodist, Dr. Henry H. Crane, speaker; First Presbyterian, Colonel Raymond Robins, speaker, and Big Bethel, Sherwood Eddy, speaker.

Negro churches of the city are to hold meetings during the remainder of the week at 12:15 o'clock daily. Services will be featured by addresses of well-known Atlanta ministers.

PREMIER OF JAPAN DIES OF INFLUENZA

Tokio, January 27.—(AP)—Viscount T. Kato, the premier, is dead.

Viscount Kato was taken ill last Saturday with influenza. While his physician said his condition was not serious, the premier would not permit him closely and would not permit him to attend the sessions of the diet.

On Tuesday, in view of the likelihood of his prolonged absence from the diet, the cabinet appointed R. Wakatsuki, minister of foreign affairs, to act as premier temporarily. The latter is leader of the Kensekai party.

According to the Japanese cabinet, the premier died early this morning.

The entire cabinet assembled at the official residence of the premier and later tendered their resignation. There is no speculation as to who will be the new premier.

Early this morning, members of the imperial family sent wine to the official residence where the death took place. This is the invariable custom in Japan when death is imminent.

The imperial physician was also dispatched to the premier's bedside.

Trouble in Offing
As Major Leagues
Prepare for MeetRules and Schedule Committees About To Lock Horns
Real Soon—Ban Johnson Spurns Golden Jubilee Banquet Invitation.

New York, January 27.—A big baseball row is brewing, and the lid of the cauldron is likely to blow off this coming week-end.

Trouble, trouble, toil and trouble seem in store for moguls of the major leagues as they gather in New York for a series of important meetings and a couple of banquets.

The major league rules committee will hold its joint meeting next Friday, when the subject of the use of resin by pitchers will be brought up. The National league will attempt to force through a ruling permitting the "resin ball" in 1926, and the American league is equally determined to permit nothing of the sort.

The schedule must be arranged soon if there is to be a major league season. While the A. A. was set when the joint schedule committee broke up in disagreement a few weeks ago, it is understood an attempt will be made to reach an agreement within a week.

Another sign of trouble is the refusal of Ban Johnson, president of the American league, to attend the golden jubilee banquet of the National league here February 2. Ban feels his position impregnable in view of the overwhelming vote of confidence given him by his American league colleagues at the annual winter meeting when they raised his salary and increased his term of office.

Miss Wills is certain to play at Nice February 1, and the French champion probably will play, but whether they will meet in the singles in that tournament is not yet decided.

SEPARATING
INTO CLASSES

Chicago, January 27.—(AP)—Golf professionals are undergoing an evolution in their relations to the game and to golf clubs, with everything pointing to two classes of professionals—exhibition players and teachers. Bob Morris, golf writer, believes it is suggested that eventually the professionals attached to golf clubs may lose their places as purveyors of golf goods and the repair and care of clubs. The larger organization will keep a greens-keeper, while the club professional is largely a golf merchant. He keeps assistants to teach the game.

Originally the professional took complete charge of a golf club. His wife often has been in charge of cuisine and housekeeping, while the two keep books and managed the social affairs.

Golf clubs for the most part soon outgrew this primitive arrangement. Club managers took over the clubhouse work, and the more elaborate serving of food and drink. Greenkeepers looked after the turf and bunkers.

Ban's Refusal.
Comiskey's Status.
Two Bad Friends.

WE FIND from a perusal of the happenings of the day that Ban Johnson, president of the American league, has declined to attend the banquet which will celebrate the 50th anniversary of baseball as actually organized and played in the United States. There is only one reason for this and it is not the fact that the National and American leagues are about to fall out. The reason is that Ban is afraid Charles A. Comiskey, president and owner of the Chicago White Sox, will be a guest.

One of the strangest things in human nature is thus brought out. There was a time long ago when Comiskey and Johnson were the very closest of friends. They were partners in the purchase of a large tract of land near Brunswick, Ga., which they called Dover Hall and which was a rendezvous in winter for baseball men from all over the country. They hunted together, fished together and planned together.

THEN there came a parting of the ways. Comiskey withdrew his support from Johnson and went over to the camp which sought to take some of Johnson's power as ruler of baseball away from him. The gulf between them grew wider and wider. Stronger and stronger grew the animus between the men until Cap. Huston, the lovable part owner of the Yankees at that time and a strong friend of Johnson's, also drew away.

The bitterness in Johnson's heart grew, but it did not exceed that in Comiskey's, so the rift never has been patched. Both men are growing old, but neither will listen to the pleadings of friends. They remain as far apart as ever—the two men who did more for organized baseball than any other two in history.

BERRY IS GIVEN
LIFE SENTENCE

of Berry was admissible, and ruled that Gore's paper should be excluded.

YOUTH ON STAND
IN OWN DEFENSE.

Relying solely on the statement of the youthful defendant himself, and an impassioned plea by Attorney Sims, the defense allowed the case to go to the jury after the witness had testified that he was a party to a robbery design.

"I thought we were going to see some girl friends," Berry said. "Wilson and Gore stepped out to get some drinks and I stayed in the car. In a very few minutes I heard a shot. I closed my eyes to look and saw Cheek run out of the car. I was afraid when Wilson and Gore dashed out of the store. They said, 'Drive and drive fast.' I didn't know what else to do, and I obeyed. I did not drive the car to Cheek's store as officers have said I told them I did."

In contrast to Gore, Berry was not affected by emotion as he related his story. He spoke in a low deliberate voice, and several times was told to speak louder in order that the jury and court reporter could hear him.

New Trial Asked.

Berry's attorney, Tuesday, filed a skeleton motion for a new trial, and Judge Humphries has set February 13 as the date for the hearing.

The jury which tried Berry was composed of:

J. E. Alexander, bookkeeper, 244 Howell Mill road; H. D. Watson, Gardner-Watson company, 49 Peachtree street; F. B. Campbell, Foothills & Davies company, Peachtree Hills; O. O. Day, Exposition cotton mills, 114 Hampton street; B. L. Echols, grocer, 87 Highland View; S. E. Ward, Westinghouse Electric company, 49 Peachtree street; W. O. White, station wagon, 200 Peachtree street; A. P. Baker, Southern Railway, 20 Highland View; G. L. Amos, conductor, 7 Erie street; J. M. Hooks, engineer, 80 White Oak avenue; C. D. Thompson, architect, 1262 Highland avenue; W. L. Cooper, brick mason, East Point.

State Scores Berry.

"Berry will ask for money on account of his youth," Mr. Stephens said. "He will tell the court if you read between the lines, that Berry was old enough to pilfer, steal and kill, but that he is too young to pay for his misdeeds. It will tell you that Berry was cunning in planning the crime, that he is far too young to be put in the crypt of Saint Rombaut's cathedral in Malines."

"We ask the death penalty not because we like to, or because it would not be fair easier to fail in our duty in prosecuting this case, but to defend society; to curb crime; to warn the strong law of the state will resent to the limit the taking of human life without provocation."

Solicitor Boykin charged that Berry, Gore and Wilson entered into a "deep-dyed" plot to rob Cheek just as they did the Gordon Street pharmacy in West End on December 19, the night preceding the Cheek slaying.

Terms Berry Murderer.

"Let's begin now with Berry, who was not a comedian, but a rare character. He was a right-handed pitcher for Brooklyn and a Decatur player, nor write, 'Roaring Bill' was never paid by check, but in one-dollar bills. While he could not add nor subtract, he could count and so twice each month the club treasurer handed 'Roaring Bill' 150 new one-dollar bills."

He would always buy several newspapers when traveling, carry them on the train and pretend to read them. One evening "Roaring Bill" while sitting in the Pullman coach looking at his papers, yelled: "Look, fellas, they took a battleship." The players, their wives and their wives' husbands had printed a picture of the ship. The trouble with "Roaring Bill" was that he held the paper upside down.

SNOOK WILL ASK PROBE INTO DEATH OF EX-PRISONER

Federal and New York state authorities will be asked to begin at once a probe of the death on December 19, at Troy, N. Y., of John Francis Beckwith, a former inmate of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, it was announced Wednesday by John W. Snook, warden of the institution.

Mr. Snook declared that of the finding of the body and a letter written to the wife of the superintendent of the prison here only one day after the body was found indicate foul play.

"The letter was exceedingly cheerful and told of the progress of the man in his writings," Mr. Snook said. "When he left prison on parole on October 15, he had $1,500 which the city of Atlanta paid him for his academy exhibit which he placed in the Southeastern fair. He also had some other money."

"Reports from Troy were that no money was found in his effects and he was buried in a pauper's field. I believe he was buried in a pauper's field and I will ask the government and New York authorities to probe the case."

According to earlier reports Beckwith was found dressed as a woman but Warden Snook declared this was not true.

Beckwith formerly was a lieutenant in the Danish army and was well educated and had written several poems.

MARKET RULES DULL AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 27.—(AP)—Further declines in the cotton market in today's early trading were followed by rallies. May contracts selling up from 19.37 to 19.63 and closing at 19.57, compared with 19.49 at the close of the previous day. The general market stayed steady, 5 to 11 points net higher.

The market opened steady, unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points. Late cables from Liverpool were steady, but failed to stimulate fresh buying here and the market quickly lowered, with a month's liquidation and some southern, local and Wall street selling. March declined to 19.91, and October to 18.04, net declines of 5 to 14 points, while December sold off to 17.77, new low ground for the movement on that point.

Private cables reported some local and continental liquidation in Liverpool, but that better news was being received from China in cotton goods and home trade in British goods was improving.

Business here was only moderately active, but showed improvement over the previous day, particularly on the late advance when the spurt of covering was said to be coupled with some further price fixing or buying for trade account.

Exports for the day, 11,995 bales, marking 5,049 so far this season, against 5,301,018 last year. Port receipts today, 22,250. United States stocks, 1,934,153.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.—Cotton spot, middle 20.90.

MARKET RULES DULL AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 27.—(AP)—The cotton market was dull today, although there was a brief spurt of activity near the close, when early sellers covered freely. The trend of prices has been downward since the market opened steady, but quiet during most of the afternoon, but in the final trading prices rallied sharply on covering by ring shorts, gaining 21 to 26 points to the lows, and making new highs for the day. The close showed net gains for the day, 6 to 10 points.

At the start Liverpool was not quite as good as due, and first trades showed losses of 1 to 5 points. There was a rally of a few points during the call, but the market soon started downward, impelled by more or less selling. In the slack period, new spots, due to the closing of some routes, scheduled for the particular day may appear at the hearings.

Changes in stops on routes one, two and three will be considered at the hearing on Wednesday, February 10, it was announced, and persons interested in these routes are asked to be present at the office of the commission at 10 o'clock on that day.

Combination of Recommendations.

The changes in official stoppage plan, which the commission will consider are those finally worked out by combining the Beeler traffic survey recommendations, the petition of the Georgia Railway & Power Company and the recommendations of J. H. Johnson, consulting engineer for the commission. Mr. Johnson was directed some weeks ago to make up a more detailed survey of the system and file his recommendations with the commission.

There are 20 routes on the Atlanta system, and others will be taken up each day following the hearings on February 10 until all have been considered.

The changes proposed on route one involve elimination of 28 of the present stops, relocating of 10 stops and creation of two new stops.

On route two the changes proposed include elimination of 26 stops, moving of 21 stops and creation of two new stops.

On route three it is proposed to eliminate 13 stops, move five, create one new stop and cut off the last 100 feet of the line at its terminus on Boulevard.

CAR STOP CHANGES HEARINGS ORDERED

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

New York, January 27.—Professional traders, now turned bearish, were disappointed with predictions that stockholders would sell after U. S. Steel Directors voted to increase regular dividend.

Durant was a buyer today of General Motors. Wall street gossip has it that General Motors will declare a $6 extra dividend payable in four quarterly installments of $1.50.

Three representatives of the Frisco and Frisco's bankers were elected directors of Rock Island today. This looks like a merger in the proposed Rock Island merger, which is to be taken to bring about the merger, however, until the Interstate commerce commission hands down its decision on the Nickel Plate merger.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY The Boston Massacre--1770. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

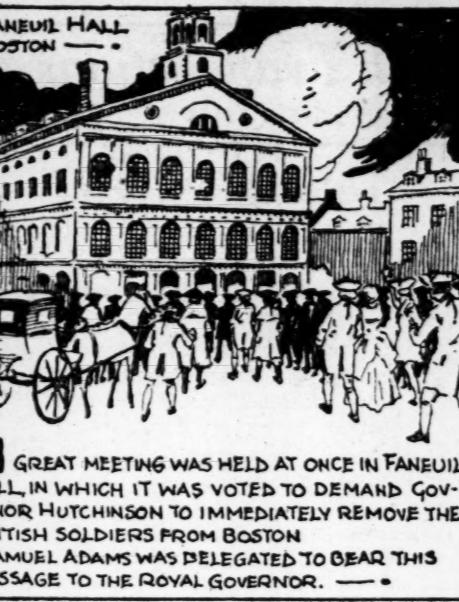

THE PEOPLE OF BOSTON RESENTED THE QUARTERING OF TWO BRITISH REGIMENTS IN THE TOWN TO ENFORCE THE KING'S LAWS, AND WHEREVER THE RED-COATS WENT, THEY WERE JEERED AND DERISIVELY CALLED "LOBSTER BACKS." TROUBLE BETWEEN THE TWO WAS INEVITABLE.

© 1926 BY THE APCLUE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE.

STREET FIGHTING BROKE OUT ON MARCH 5, 1770 BETWEEN CITIZENS AND SOLDIERS, DURING WHICH THE BRITISH FIRED INTO THE CROWD, KILLING OR WOUNDING A DOZEN AMERICANS. THE BOSTON MASSACRE AS IT WAS CALLED, CAUSED AN UPRISING OF THE BOSTON PEOPLE.

A GREAT MEETING WAS HELD AT ONCE IN FANEUIL HALL, IN WHICH IT WAS VOTED TO DEMAND GOVERNOR HUTCHINSON TO IMMEDIATELY REMOVE THE BRITISH SOLDIERS FROM BOSTON. SAMUEL ADAMS WAS DELEGATED TO BEAR THIS MESSAGE TO THE ROYAL GOVERNOR.

WHEN HUTCHINSON ATTEMPTED TO PARLEY, ADAMS EXCLAIMED, "YONDER IN THE TOWN 3000 PEOPLE ARE GATHERING; THE COUNTRY IS RISING AND WE MUST HAVE OUR ANSWER!" THE TROOPS WERE REMOVED, AND LATER THE TOWNSEND ACTS WERE REPEALED. TOMORROW--EARLY CLASHES WITH THE BRITISH.

CHAPTER 52
A Short Excursion.
He hastened for the fraction of a moment before he answered her.
"I came down to have a look at Landis' yacht. I was going to buy it from him."
"So I came down on the 4:15. It was a bit of a boat, though I had almost got a lead Royal Cliff. When I got to your local depot I changed my mind about hurrying on by car, and strolled instead along the cliffs. I'm a bit of a naturalist, as no doubt you've heard—and there are some rare specimens of seagulls' eggs here abouts."
"I waded away an hour or two climbing about the rocks," proceeded he, "and then, realizing the awkwardness of being stranded without a place to lay my head for the night, I headed at last for Royal Cliff. It was a long walk—but I enjoy walking. Luck led me to you. And there's the story!"

A small silence ensued, broken only by the hissing of the rain on the roof.
"How very odd!" said Roslyn at last.
"It was. Luckily odd, as I've said before."
"And you say you found me in a sort of hollow? Above ground, you mean?"
"Of course." He laughed as though amused. "Forget this nonsense of subterranean passages, my child. You're overstrung, and small wonder, when one thinks what you've gone through."

She shivered.
"We're getting home," she said. "They'll be—mean my mother-in-law will be—wild with anxiety." "And Landis?"
"He's in New York," said the young wife shortly.
Then—

"I'm all right now. Let's go." She arose, moving rather stiffly towards the open door.

Roslyn took her arm. He drew it to him with a possessive press, and said, anxiously:

"Are you sure you're fit enough to walk?"

"Oh, yes."
"I could leave you," he suggested, "and see if I could get help somewhere of a car. But we're a long way from the roads, in any case."

"Don't leave me."

"You'd be afraid to be left in the hut alone?"

"Yes. I'd die of terror."

"But you wouldn't be afraid if I remained with you, even if we had to stay all night?"

The two were aware, and had a sort of veiled intimacy about them. "It would be out of the question to stay, so why talk about it?" The girl walked out of the hut. "I've been enough trouble to you already. You carried me here I don't know."

They walked on the uneven ground through the pouring rain.

Roslyn cast fearful glances at every dim outline of low bushes.

"I did slide down a sort of staircase, end in chalk," persisted Roslyn. "The fall stunned me at first. When I came to, I was out of my car. My arm was forlorn. I tell you! Look!" And she thrust back her sleeve. In the darkness her companion could not see the little splash of concealed blood.

Briscoe drew her a little nearer him as they walked, trying to take most of her weight on himself.

"Forget it all, that I'm sure. Forget it!"

"I didn't. It was true."

He said, soothingly—

"Concession's a queer thing, and plays lots of tricks with the brain. My personal belief is that you had a fall; indeed, I found you among trees, bushes, and a clearing that clearly showed you had been running and tripped over aoulder and so into a little hollow. In the twilight I got a glimpse of your white frock, and stopped to investigate. Then I carried you to the nearest shelter, and you had started to come down."

They waded on in the darkness, the rain pouring down on them with might and main.

Briscoe had her by the elbow, supporting her as much as possible.

Said she at last:

"I'm aching queer. I want to tell you, I'm quite true. I was running. I'd seen a tramp asleep under some bushes, and I suddenly realized the loneliness of the place, and how foolish I'd been to wander so far."

Briscoe asked:

"And the tramp wakened up, and seen you? Had he frightened you?"

"Oh, no. But after I'd turned homewards, I thought I heard some one following me. The ground is uneven, and I couldn't see far back."

But Roslyn continued, nervously, and speaking in staccato jerks:

"I haven't come—yet—to the queerest bit. You say—that you only came down on the 4:15? Then you weren't in this neighborhood today till after half past six?"

"That's right. But why the Sherriff, Holmes' investigation?" The man's tones were still amused—and yet the atmosphere between the pair seemed tense, almost electric.

What was coming next?

Said Roslyn:

"I think that the rough-looking tramp under the bushes... was he offended, please... because, of course, I see my stupid error, the tramp was uncommonly like you!"

"Like me? Great guns! and Ru-walking along beside him. "He had part Briscoe burst into a hearty guffaw.

"He was," persisted his companion, his hat tilted over his eyes, but I could see the tip of his nose, and his mouth and chin—unshaven, by the way!" She shook out another nerveless little laugh. "You've no idea how much he resembles you, even if he was shabbily dressed! And when you tell me just now that you'd been climbing about the cliffs in search of seagulls' eggs, the whole thing did seem to tally, rather—except about the time."

"So you thought I was a wild man pursuing you, and you ran like a hunted little creature," chided Rupert Briscoe, his hold on her arm tightening. "My! You amaze me!"

Amusements

The Atlanta Theater.

Lovers of powerful drama are delighted in Walker Whiteside's presentation of the Far East melodrama of Hong Kong, "Mr. Wu," in which this star is appearing in the dominating character of Wu Li Chang at the Atlanta theater this week. The theme is one of filial love and fatherly devotion, strongly contrasted with the deep-seated desire for revenge upon his enemies. For Wu Li Chang, or "Mr. Wu" as he is known by the Europeans of Hong Kong, is a modern man; an Oxford graduate, and a power in the political affairs of the Celestial empire, and his enmity is aroused only when he is outraged by his rivals. Then he becomes a fanatic Mongolian, whose methods smack of old-time tortures at which he is an adept.

New Rules For City Firemen Require Courtesy and Offer Protection to All Members

Officers and Men Given Equal Consideration in New Rules Promulgated By Committee.

Insubordination by any employee of the Atlanta fire department, upon conviction following trial, will mean automatic dismissal, according to the policy of the 1926 board of firemen, adopted unanimously at a session Wednesday afternoon.

Firemen, who show disrespect to any officer higher in rank will be laid off immediately.

On the other hand, the board put officers on notice they must be considerate of their men and must refrain from cursing or abusing them.

Any man in the department will have the privilege of preferring charges against another member for such treatment, with assurances by Alderman Guy Dobbs, chairman, and other members of the board, they will be afforded immunity from any "comeback."

The board decided to seek bids on the prospective sale of No. 4 engine house on North Pryor street, the proceeds to be devoted to erecting a new engine house in the tenth ward. The board acted under authority of a resolution adopted by council last Monday.

The present rules governing the department were declared faulty in that they failed to define certain authorities vested in superior officers and on motion of Councilman W. E. Saunders a special committee was appointed by the chairman to make an immediate revision of the rules and report back to the board of February 24. Councilmen Saunders and Huie and Alderman Ford were named on this committee.

Councilman Huie informed the board he had under consideration a motion by which the cost of the six signal operators may be increased.

Fireman Pittman of No. 6 was given a reprimand for alleged disrespect to Lieutenant Mayfield at a recent fire. Fireman Nunn of No. 11 was given 30 days suspension for leaving his company to another company without permission and for an alleged disrespectful remark to Lieutenant Barker, who questioned him upon his return.

Leeds, England.—Dying in the same hospital, the bodies of J. C. Rushton and R. L. Rushton were sent to their wrong homes.
